TEACHING EXPERIENCE

- Teaching Assistant – University of British Columbia September – December 2020
 TA for the graduate MEDG 520 Advanced Human Molecular Genetics course in the Department of Medical Genetics. Instrumental in restructuring the course and assignments, assisting course instructors, and holding tutorial sessions. “Nikita always responded promptly and thoughtfully to requests for advice. Her input and assistance helped guide the learning process. She did everything I think a good teacher should, and went above and beyond the time and effort I would expect from a TA. She was the best part of the course.”
- Biostatistics Expert – BC Children's Hospital Research Institute, Vancouver, Canada. January – April 2021
 Developed videos and resources teaching statistical concepts and analyses undertaken in health research at various levels (beginner, intermediate and advanced). Videos published online for the Summer Student Research Program 2021.
- Visiting Scholar – MIT-ADT School of Bioengineering Sciences and Research, India March – July 2019
 Visiting Lecturer (3 lectures) in Genetics for first year undergraduate Bachelor of Technology Bioengineering students.
